1. Category Performance

Student Essentials is the top revenue category at approximately $22.3K, driven strongly by in-store purchases ($14.1K). This suggests solid demand from the local student and education-adjacent customer base.

2. Store Performance

Fort Myers (the flagship location) leads with ~$28.9K in revenue, followed by North Port (~ $20.2K$) $and\ Naples$ (~15.6K). The flagship store significantly outperforms the others.

3. Channel Mix

In-store sales dominate, generating roughly $42K versus $22.8K from online. While online is meaningful, the business is still primarily brick-and-mortar driven.

4. Seasonality

Sales were strongest in 2025, followed by 2026, with 2024 being the lowest. This pattern is consistent with a growing business and possible back to school / seasonal effects in the Student Essentials category.

5. Top Products

The highest-performing individual products are:

- Phone Case (~$5,661 | 95 units)
- Laptop Sleeve (~$5,060 | 95 units)
- USB Hub (~$4,649 | 86 units)

Recommendations

Based on the analysis, here are clear, actionable recommendations:

1. Double down on Student Essentials
   This is already the strongest category. Consider expanding the assortment (more tech accessories, study tools, and campus-friendly products) and running targeted promotions around back-to-school periods.
2. Strengthen the Fort Myers flagship
   Since it significantly outperforms the other locations, use it as a testing ground for new products and higher margin items before rolling them out to North Port and Naples.
3. Grow the online channel
   Online currently contributes only about one-third of revenue. Focus on improving online visibility for the top products (Phone Case, Laptop Sleeve, USB Hub) and consider online-only bundles or discounts to increase digital sales.
4. Investigate Naples underperformance
   Naples is the lowest performing store. Review local competition, foot traffic, and product mix to determine whether assortment changes or targeted marketing could improve results.